Oh, the lovely things we find at the farmers market. Jedd was afraid that this past week might be the last because of the weather. (It snowed on Friday. Yikes!) So he came home arms a-bursting with a big, beautiful bunch of summer savory, apples, onions, parsley, cilantro, tomatillos, peppers and 2 pints of plum tomatoes. And as thrilled as I was with all of it, I looked at the savory and the apples and decided to make a beautiful autumn tart. But, I also wanted it to be spicy and tangy, so first I made a chipotle apple chutney with summer savory and cranberries.
